Legislator Anker Attends Hallock Cemetery Clean-Up

Legislator Anker and local volunteers all pitched in to clean up the Noah Hallock Cemetery on Hallock Lane in Rocky Point.

ROCKY POINT, NY – On Saturday, April 16th Suffolk County Legislator Sarah Anker attended the Noah Hallock Cemetery spring clean-up, hosted by the Rocky Point Historical Society. Historical Society members and local boy scouts all pitched in to rake away the leaves and winter debris at the cemetery on Hallock Lane in Rocky Point. The cemetery is the resting place of 40 members of the Hallock Family, and the oldest tombstone dates back to 1766.

“Thank you to all the volunteers and scouts who helped to clean up this important historical site,” said Legislator Anker. “If it was not for local volunteers, we would not be able to maintain the historical landmarks that are meaningful representations of our community’s history.”
