(MELVILLE, NY... July 14, 2010) – For the second straight year, Suffolk Legislator Lou D'Amaro (D-Huntington Station) has collected and donated more than 4 dozen books he gathered from local constituents to residents of the Knolls of Melville, a development of more than 200 units for senior citizens aged 62 and over. Legislator D'Amaro hand-delivered the books to Knolls' resident Betty Ann Woodman, who coordinates the library for the community. Ms. Woodman also provided him with a tour of the Knolls book stacks and recreation room.

“In this fast-moving, tech-obsessed era, reading still remains one of life’s simple pleasures; it keeps our minds active while giving us the opportunity to slow down and get lost in another world,” Legislator D’Amaro said. “I am an avid reader myself and would like to thank our local residents who have shared these books from their personal collections for enjoyment by the Knolls residents.”
