Legislator Lou D'Amaro Informs Residents About Online Civil Service Exam Listings

(HUNTINGTON STATION, NY... August 24, 2012) – Suffolk Legislator Lou D'Amaro (D-Huntington Station) wants to remind residents that new employment opportunities may be just a mouse click away, and that individuals interested in becoming civil service employees can find out about scheduled exams and available positions right online. The program, administered through the Suffolk County Department of Civil Service, provides information on positions available both locally and across the country.

Interested residents can find information on upcoming civil service exams by visiting <http://www.suffolkcountyny.gov/Departments/civilservice.aspx> and clicking on “Current List of Exams.” Each exam listing includes information on if and where the job openings are available. While some exams are administered for future job vacancies only, it is in prospective employees’ best interest to take any exams as they are offered to ensure that they are placed on the Civil Service Eligible List when openings do occur.

Suffolk County administers competitive exams for job titles in over 241 jurisdictions including the county, its 10 towns and the multitude of villages, school districts and fire, water and library special districts. In past years, up to 300 exams were administered for these jurisdictions, which collectively employ almost 50,000 individuals.

“The online Civil Service exam listing is another way for individuals to enhance their job searches,” Legislator D’Amaro said. “I urge every community member to regularly check this informative website to see if there is an upcoming exam and/or job opening that is a good fit for their background and interests. It could be the start of an exciting new career!”
