tremendous amount of time, dedication, and the ability to overcome many personal challenges. In essence, this is the candidate's opportunity to shine by fully applying all the knowledge and skillsets he has acquired throughout his Scouting career. In addition to being a milestone in the Scout's career, becoming an Eagle Scout also commits a young man to a life of service to the community.

For his required Eagle Scout project, Michael designed, constructed and installed six wardrobe storage units for the Lindenhurst High School Drama Club. Thanks to Michael's efforts these units will store and protect the Club's costumes and props for years to come. This project certainly will make a lasting contribution to the community, which is a major goal of the Eagle Scout service projects.

"Michael clearly embodies everything that an Eagle Scout should," said McCaffrey. "I have no doubt in my mind that Michael will continue to be a role model for his generation – and really for us all – for many years to come. Suffice it to say, the future is in good hands with individuals like Michael."
