The “Arrow of Light” is the highest award that one can receive in the Cub Scouts, and it marks the final level a scout must achieve before he can make his transition (a.k.a. “crossing the bridge”) into the Boy Scouts. This special occasion was enjoyed by the proud parents of these young scouts, their Cubmaster, Denise Navarro, along with other scouts who hope to “cross the bridge” themselves in the near future.

“These ceremonies are truly special occasions for many reasons,” said Legislator McCaffrey. “Achieving this level in the Cub Scouts is not easy; it takes a lot of time, commitment, and sacrifice, not only on the part of the young scouts, but their families as well. These young men are already leaders among their peers and I have every confidence that they will prosper in the Boy Scouts, and will continue to serve their communities well into their adult lives.”
