Brentwood, NY: Legislator Kevin McCaffrey (R-Lindenhurst) recently had the honor of attending and speaking at the commencement ceremony for Suffolk County Community College's Class of 2015. McCaffrey was joined by a wide variety of school officials, dignitaries from the federal, state and local levels, and the greater community.

This year's 53rd commencement took place at the Michael J. Grant Campus, and was an historic event, as the college graduated its largest class ever – 4,306 students. The size and diversity of the Class of 2015 is a clear reflection of the growing desirability of community colleges, particularly ones like Suffolk Community College, which offer a wide variety of concentrations and a world of opportunities.

“The excitement and pride in the crowd was immediately apparent,” said McCaffrey. “Today was an important milestone for not only the thousands of graduates, but for their loved ones as well. I am proud to see how Suffolk Community College has grown over the years, and I believe it will continue to grow in more ways than one. I wish the class of 2015 the best of luck, health, happiness and prosperity in all the years to come.”

Suffolk Community College graduates who choose to pursue more advanced degrees benefit greatly from the college’s many transfer agreements with other schools, making the transition as seamless as possible. The list of schools with transfer agreements includes both public and private schools located throughout the State of New York.

According to their website, Suffolk Community College has more than 26,500 students enrolled at its various campuses, and as a whole, is the largest community college in the state. For more information, you can visit: <http://www.sunysuffolk.edu/about.asp>.
